Government Rejects Ohio Rail Plan

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio's rail transportation plan has been rejected by the federal government, apparently barring the state from any federal funding for rail lines now on the brink of abandonment, a federal official says.

Judd Gould, Ohio contact officer for the federal Rail Services Planning Office in Washington, said state officials probably will learn of the rejection today.

Gould said the rejection represents the latest failure by Ohio's state government to cope with the changing rail system.

Unless state officials realize they stand to lose 850 miles of rail line within the next three months, Gould said, the reorganization of the nation's railroads may be completed without Ohio taking part.

Unless Ohio begins to hustle, Gould said, millions of dollars in federal subsidies will be lost and the 850 miles of lesser-used track will be abandoned, possibly by the first of April. Employers located along those lines have said previously that losing the track will mean closing their factories.

Gould laid the problem at the feet of Gov. James A. Rhodes and, to a lesser extent, the General Assembly and the attorney general.

"Ohio has never received the kind of support from the governor's office, even the legislature, that was needed," he said. "Rhodes has never shown any appreciation for the problems they have."

He cited as an example the present status of the Ohio Department of Transportation.

"That agency is devoid of any rail experience," Gould said. "Under the Rhodes administration, they kicked out a lot of guys with rail experience that could have done a hell of a job.

"Now, they've got two guys — nice guys, but they're highway engineers with no rail experience. And the work that was put out was really inferior work," he said.

He said while Ohio had two highway engineers prepare the state rail plan, most states had 10 to 12 railroad experts working on their plans.

Gould said state rail legislation has been enacted with little understanding by most legislators of the problems involved and the attorney general has failed to work with federal rail planners on legal problems.

As a result, he said, "It's conceivable that Ohio is going to miss out on the potential subsidies."

The subsidies are included in a bill now in a Congressional conference committee. The bill is expected to go to President Ford this week providing 100 per cent federal funding for the track marked for abandonment, at least for one year.

The bill is expected to provide 90 per cent federal subsidy for the lines in the second year, Gould said, and probably will provide 70 per cent federal funding through the fifth year of the rail reorganization plan.

But unless Ohio can draft an acceptable rail plan quickly, Gould said, (Continued on Page 14)

Demos Deride Ford Program

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford will send Congress a $394.2-billion budget tomorrow, but congressional Democrats are already attacking it and marshaling their strength for imminent veto battles to test their strength in the election-year spending dispute.

The outlines of the budget Ford will submit Wednesday were made clear in his State of the Union message Monday night as he urged spending restraint and renewed his proposal for a balancing income tax cut.

In his address, Ford said the nation's condition was better now than it was a year ago but that it's still not good enough. He proposed cutting income taxes by $10 billion, raising Social Security levies $4.2 billion, adding catastrophic health insurance for Medicare recipients, encouraging business expansion by offering new tax incentives and providing housing assistance for 500,000 families.

A White House data sheet announcing the budget total for the 12 months beginning next Oct. 1 says the budget will be $43 billion in deficit. The deficit for the current fiscal year is estimated at $76 billion.

Democrats responded with a chorus of charges that Ford was putting what they called an arbitrary spending ceiling ahead of the needs of the unemployed in an economy just beginning to recover.

The Democrats also signaled that the forthcoming disputes over vetoes and the federal budget will bear the seeds for future political issues in this election year.

Ford raised some political themes in his address, possibly trying out "new realism" as a campaign slogan and obliquely criticizing his Republican opponent, Ronald Reagan.

The first veto dispute comes next Tuesday when the House will vote whether to override Ford's veto of a $45-billion labor-health, education and welfare appropriation heavy with funding for social programs. They would need a two-thirds vote to override, and the outcome is in doubt. House Majority Leader Thomas P.

O'Neill Jr., D-Mass., said Ford's economic plan would throw an additional 200,000 persons out of work. Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, D-Minn., said Ford failed "to come to grips with the problem of unemployment and the sluggishness of our economy."

In another major squabble between the Democratic Congress and Ford, the House votes next Tuesday on a $112-billion defense appropriation that contains a ban on using U.S. funds to help any faction in the Angolan civil war. The Senate already has approved the ban.

"We must not face a future in which we can no longer help our friends, such as in Angola, even in limited and carefully controlled ways" Ford told Congress in the nationally broadcast address.

He said such actions as the Senate's vote for the Angola funds ban were (Continued on Page 2)

Snow, Ice Storms Roam Over State; Road Deaths Noted

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Coast Guard has issued a warning about Lake Erie ice conditions after a helicopter had to be called from Detroit to help rescue 10 persons from an ice floe that started drifting away from shore near Port Clinton.

Freezing rain and snow began an advance across the state from the west Monday, trailing icy roads, especially in the state's northwestern and southwestern corners.

Coast Guardsmen said a 14-foot aluminum ice skiff from Marblehead helped the helicopter bring the fishermen safely ashore Monday at Catawba. Ninth District Coast Guard headquarters in Cleveland said the ice fishermen were trapped when a sudden wind shift brought gale force breezes out of the southwest, and the ice started to break up and move offshore.

Residents along the lake were warned to keep off the ice and to warn children of the danger of walking out from shore.

Fifteen-year-old Penny Mossberger of Greenfield was killed Monday, when the car she was riding in skidded out of control near Washington Court House. The Fayette County sheriff's office said she was tossed from the car and then crushed by it.

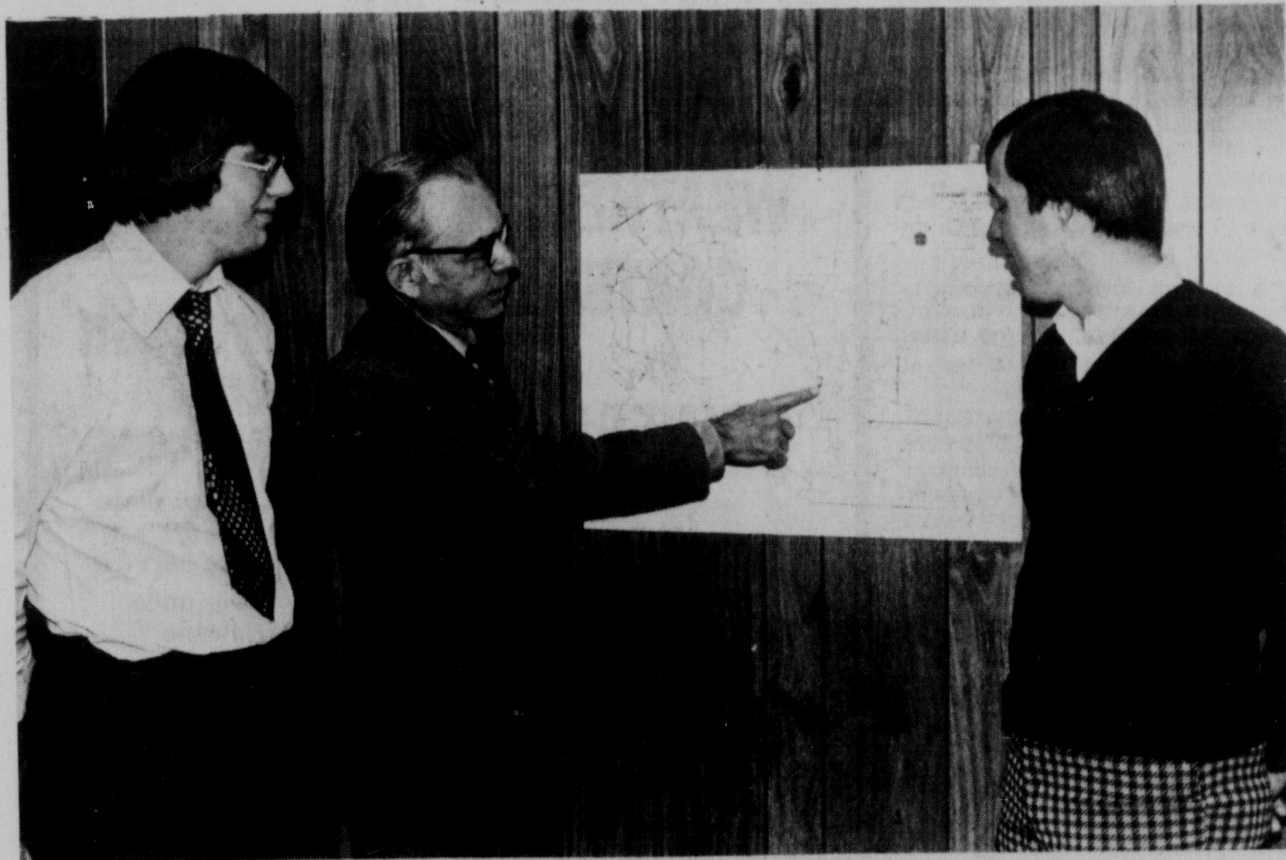

The skid could have been caused by ice, authorities said.

Police in Franklin, near Cincinnati, said 13 cars were involved in one accident at Interstate 75 at Ohio 73. Six cars skidded off a ramp and the others ploughed into them, authorities said.

A police cruiser and a fire department ambulance were demolished in the wreck.

Chamber Of Commerce Backs Creation Of Disaster Plan

DISASTER PLAN — Bill Smith, disaster coordinator for Pickaway County, looks over the possibilities of a county-wide alert system with Asa Elsea, right, and Greg Bigam, left. Elsea serves as chairman of the Chamber of Commerce's Safety Committee which has worked toward the creation of a disaster plan for the area. Bigam, federal funds coordinator for the county commissioners, helped the committee get funding for Smith's part-time position.

One of the most important tasks the Circleville Area Chamber of Commerce embarked upon this past year was the supporting of a disaster program.

The tornado in Xenia in 1974 and the mass confusion that ensued were probably the most significant factors which prompted the Chamber to stand behind the organization of a disaster plan for Pickaway County. The Safety Committee adopted the disaster plan as part of its yearly challenge and began work on it in 1974.

After the groundwork of the plan was laid by the Chamber's Safety Committee, it was presented to the county commissioners for approval. Funding for the program comes from the commissioners.

By July, 1975, the program was organized well enough for the employment of a director-coordinator. At that time, Bill Smith, a retired Circleville man, was employed on a part-time basis to organize the program further and to act as administrator and coordinator.

As part of his job, Smith has completed a home study course in organizing such a disaster program. In July, he will enter a two-week seminar at the Disaster Civil Protection Agency's staff college in Battletree, Mich.

The first step in organizing the plan was to update the county-wide agreement which allows one group, in this case the disaster coordinator, to handle the coordinating of the various subdivisions' efforts. As the program moves along, Smith will also organize the advisory and executive committees for the implementation of a basic plan in case of disaster.

Federal guidelines have been established for any disaster program but as Smith stated, much of the federal guidelines are geared toward nuclear attack. The purpose of the local program is to put to use the county capabilities in case of any disaster, either war or natural, to maximize the preservation of life and property.

Governmental funds are available on a 50-50 basis for a program that is completely organized but Smith says complete organization for the local program is still a long way off.

He said that the Red Cross in Pickaway County is well-organized and would be of great benefit in any disaster but it will be some time yet before the disaster program would be completely organized.

A much later step in its development will be an alarm system. Smith has studied various plans for such a system and hopes to ultimately obtain some federal assistance for the initial purchase when the program is ready for the system.

CONTRACT SIGNED — Circleville Twp. Trustees, from the left, John Robinson, Ralph Ankrom, Martha Purcell, John Fissell and Pickaway County Sheriff Dwight Radcliff sign an agreement for additional police protection, which covers a three-mile radius. The additional deputy will alleviate some of the burden on two cruisers on duty. The full-time deputy, whose salary of $9,875, is paid by the Township, will provide protection 56 hours, seven days a week, effective Jan. 1, 1976. Hailed by Radcliff as "just a beginning", the project is part of a three phase project of Circleville Twp., which includes more police protection, better fire protection and rural transportation. Circleville Twp. trustees will also pay uniform and equipment costs, workmen's compensation and public employee retirement system for the deputy.

Columbus Policemen Start Slowdown

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Police officers began a slowdown Monday in an effort to force the city to accede to their demand for a 10 per cent pay hike. But Columbus Finance Director Michael Gable said, "There will not be a 10 per cent offer made."

The members of the Fraternal Order of Police (FOP) voted Sunday to conduct a slowdown as a protest against the city's 4 per cent pay hike offer.

Last week the officers voted overwhelmingly to reject the city offer.

Current starting pay for police officers is $9,089.60 per year. Their salaries increase in three steps to a top wage of $13,707.20 after 2½ years.

FOP President Dewey Stokes said officers will respond to all emergency calls but will "use their own discretion in many cases."

He said writing tickets for traffic violators probably would be discontinued.

Stokes estimated that officers bring in close to $2 million a year in traffic and parking fines for the city treasury. "It won't take but a few days before the city realizes the money isn't coming in," he said.

"If they're not going to give it (the money) to us, we're not going to give it to them," Stokes added.

He said he did not expect a public outcry against the slowdown. "I think the public should support us as they have in the past," Stokes said, adding, "We hope the citizenry will continue to obey the law."

Fire Damages Extremely Light

DENNISON, Ohio (AP) — Most cities wish for a fire department expense report like Chief Dick Patterson turned in.

His 1975 annual report to City Council noted department expenses of $5 for the month of June.

That was for damage to a flooded automobile carburetor and the fire was out when firemen reached the scene. The other four calls for that month showed no fire damages.

For the year, the fire department answered 153 calls, Patterson said, and total fire damage was $61,971.

Col. Ralph Drown, second in command of the police department, said he could not believe "that any Columbus police officer would ignore" an emergency call or a serious violation of the law. "We're taking care of the public," he said.

Columbus Finance Director Michael Gable, chief negotiator for the city on the wage talks, said the slowdown will not change the city's position on salary hikes. He said the 4 per cent boost is about as much as can be offered.

Gable said the city's 4 per cent offer would cost about $850,000. The FOP's demand would cost "well over twice that," he said.

The FOP's demand also calls for a 16 per cent wage differential between ranks.

Police and city negotiators were tentatively scheduled to meet Wednesday. The officers named a new negotiating team and Gable said he believed the new team would probably slow future talks. He also predicted the new team would be "more militant" than the previous one.

Stokes contends that the officers were saying to the city with their Sunday vote: "When you come to the bargaining table the next time, be serious."

THANKS FOR THE RIDE — PICCA Director Sam Dettra has termed the rural transportation, in effect for approximately seven months, as quite successful. Ridership on the bus has been averaging 80 persons a month with 65 of those riders being senior citizens. Traveling approximately 1500 miles per month, the bus leaves Memorial Hall, arrives at a particular destination and brings the passengers to Circleville where they can shop, visit a friend, see a doctor, or whatever the need, and takes the rider home following the same route. A small donation is good for a round trip. The rural transportation is available to anyone who wishes to conserve fuel or does not like to or cannot drive. "The more riders," according to Dettra, "the more funds we can get to help boost this project." Omer Abner is the driver of the bus and enjoys the job very much. A new route has recently been started on Wednesdays to Stoutsville. The bus will arrive in Stoutsville at 9 a.m. and return to Circleville at 9:45 a.m. It will take the passengers home over the same route, leaving Circleville at 12:45 p.m.

"very shortsighted." House Speaker Carl Albert has said he cannot conceive of Congress approving Angola aid on the basis of arguments put forward by the administration. Albert called Ford's spending restraint-tax reduction plan unworkable.

Ford said his tax-cut and spending-ceiling proposal, essentially the one Congress refused to vote last year, would provide a $10-billion tax reduction in addition to the compromise cut in effect until midyear. He said it would mean $227 a year in additional takehome pay for a family of four with $15,000 income.

But Ford also proposed an increase in another tax, the payroll levy paid by employers and employees to support the Social Security system that has been running a deficit and dipping into its reserves.

Effective in 1977, the increase would raise the maximum tax paid by an employee to $1,014, up from $855 this year. All but $49 of this proposed hike might occur anyway under automatic provisions of present law.

Ford also proposed a revision in the Medicare health program for the aged. It would cost the over-65 patients more for short-term illnesses, but set a $740-a-year ceiling on what they could be charged for covered services. The limit, he said, would protect them against catastrophic costs for serious illness.

While Ford's message forshadowed clashes on a number of issues with the Democratic majority in Congress, it also staked out some positions that would set him apart from Reagan.

While Reagan has proposed large-scale transfers of federal programs to the states, Ford came out for tightening rather than abolishing federal welfare programs.

Ford also called for what he described as "long overdue reform of the scandal-ridden food stamp program." A major change would limit benefits to those whose net income is below the poverty level, currently $5,050 for a family of four.

He said temporary extensions of special unemployment benefits will continue in 1976 and that he will ask for continued job training funds in 1977.

He renewed his call for a five-year extension of federal revenue-sharing with states and localities.

Ford advanced two plans he said would stimulate needed business investment. One would provide fast depreciation of productive facilities, aimed especially at areas of high unemployment — which under present circumstances would cover much of the country.

Another would be designed to encourage persons of moderate income to buy stock in U.S. firms. The purchase price for such long-term investments could be deducted for tax purposes, with the proceeds to be subject to tax only if cashed in later.

To make it easier for heirs to retain family farms and businesses, Ford said the estate tax on such inheritances should be postponed and stretched out.

He also said he will propose programs to help lower-income persons rent and buy homes through subsidies affecting 500,000 dwelling units, at the same time helping the lagging housing industry.

Saying the country needs a strong defense posture to strengthen its hand in international negotiations and keep its alliances vigorous, he said he will submit an increased defense budget.

Warning against "the crippling of our foreign intelligence services," Ford said, "I will take actions to reform and strengthen our intelligence community. I ask for your positive cooperation. It is time to go beyond sensationalism...."

Kissinger Opens Trip To Moscow

COPENHAGEN, Denmark (AP)—Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger headed today into nuclear arms negotiations with the Russians with a new warning that their intervention in Angola and other parts of the world could imperil U.S.-Soviet relations.

But Kissinger said he was determined to break the deadlock that has held up completion of a treaty to put a ceiling on the two powers' ballistic missiles and long-range bombers lasting until 1985.

For the first time, a senior Pentagon arms specialist was at Kissinger's side for the Kremlin talks with Soviet leader Leonid I. Brezhnev. He is James P. Wade, deputy secretary of defense and the U.S. military's top specialist on nuclear weapons negotiations.

Kissinger stopped briefly in Denmark for lunch with Prime Minister Anker Joergensen and a courtesy call on Queen Margrethe.

His warning to the Soviets was volunteered before television cameras before a premidnight take off from Andrews Air Force base outside Washington.

Kissinger said President Ford had instructed him to find out "whether any progress can be made in limiting the nuclear arms race." An agreement, Kissinger said, "is in the interests of all Americans and the world."

Then, in wagging a finger at the Russians, Kissinger said: "I am also going to make clear to my hosts that the United States will not accept intervention in other parts of the world. The continuation of such measures must lead to deterioration in Soviet-American relations."

While in Moscow Kissinger intends to take up with Brezhnev the U.S. call for a withdrawal of all foreign forces from Angola.

Panel Studies Contempt Citation

CINCINNATI (AP) — A three-judge panel from the 6th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals has taken under advisement a motion to overturn a contempt of court order against one of the key witnesses in the investigation into the disappearance of Teamster leader Jimmy Hoffa.

The appellate court Monday asked whether Stephen Andretta would eventually testify before a grand jury looking into Hoffa's disappearance.

"You tell me that Mr. Andretta can tell us where he was on July 30?" Judge George Edwards asked Andretta's attorney, William E. Bufalino. "If he is prepared to answer the question, we will remand the order back to Judge Freeman."

U.S. District court Judge Ralph M. Freeman found Andretta in contempt Dec. 11 after he declined to answer grand jury questions, despite being granted immunity.

At one point in the hearing, Judge Albert Engel told Bufalino, "Your man can get out of jail if he answers the questions."

Robert C. Ozer, head of the Organized Strike Force in Detroit, said Andretta was asked: "Where were you July 30?" That was the date Hoffa disappeared.

Andretta, of Little Ferry, N.J., said only: "I would like to confer with my attorney."

"A grave injustice has been done to Stephen Andretta by an inquisitor," said Bufalino, who added that Freeman was "a victim of statements made by Mr. Ozer."

The appellate judges, during the 1½-hour hearing, also admitted they were concerned about "the technical question" about whether Freeman's contempt order could only be issued orally.

"We are concerned about whether an oral order cited in court is sufficient basis for confinement," Edwards said.

Commissioners Okay Block Grant Projects

Pickaway County Commissioners Don Strous, Dick T. Tootle and L. Robert Liston today approved the filing of the pre-application for community block grants.

Projects approved by the commissioners included a senior citizen center at an estimated cost of $260,000 and a proposal by PICCA for rejuvenating houses for the economically disadvantaged.

Under this program, if funded, money would be used to purchase substandard housing, remodel and repair it, and then re-sell to a low income family. FHA low interest loans would be available to the low income families for purchase.

A report was submitted by the Ohio Department of Transportation concerning the reduction of the speed limit on Welch Road between Route 762 and the Pickaway-Franklin County Line.

A traffic survey and speed limit study had been requested by residents along the road. The Department of Transportation stated that in their opinion a reduced speed limit would only encourage motorists to disobey the law and therefore did not recommend it at this time.

Commissioners authorized Harold Hartley to remodel the garage at the old children's home to be used as a meeting room. Federal revenue sharing funds are to be used for the project.

Commissioners met with Ralph Amey to discuss a study he is completing on the space requirements of the various county departments.

Teachers End Walkout

CLEVELAND (AP) — Teachers in suburban Berea have voted to end their walkout and return to the schools pending a ratification vote on a new contract.

The Berea Education Association said the teachers were returning to work today.

Terms of the agreement which was worked out in marathon negotiating sessions Monday night were not disclosed.

The BEA had demanded a reduction in class size, along with pay increases which would have boosted a starting teachers' salary from the present $8,650 a year to $9,500.

Teachers earlier rejected a board offer of a $9,200 starting salary.

The 730 teachers struck Jan. 12, and only a small percentage of the system's 15,000 pupils attended school last week.

Under this program, if funded, money would be used to purchase substandard housing, remodel and repair it, and then re-sell to a low income family. FHA low interest loans would be available to the low income families for purchase.

A report was submitted by the Ohio Department of Transportation concerning the reduction of the speed limit on Welch Road between Route 762 and the Pickaway-Franklin County Line.

A traffic survey and speed limit study had been requested by residents along the road. The Department of transportation stated that in their opinion a reduced speed limit would only encourage motorists to disobey the law and therefore did not recommend it at this time.

Commissioners authorized Harold Hartley to remodel the garage at the old children's home to be used as a meeting room. Federal revenue sharing funds are to be used for the project.

Commissioners met with Ralph Arney to discuss a study he is completing on the space requirements of the various county departments.

Teachers End Walkout

CLEVELAND (AP) — Teachers in suburban Berea have voted to end their walkout and return to the schools pending a ratification vote on a new contract.

The Berea Education Association said the teachers were returning to work today.

Terms of the agreement which was worked out in marathon negotiating sessions Monday night were not disclosed.

The BEA had demanded a reduction in class size, along with pay increases which would have boosted a starting teachers' salary from the present $8,650 a year to $9,500.

Teachers earlier rejected a board offer of a $9,200 starting salary.

The 730 teachers struck Jan. 12, and only a small percentage of the system's 15,000 pupils attended school last week.

Some people believe the natural gas shortage is over. Because that's what they want to believe.

The hard fact is—the natural gas shortage can only get worse unless Congress acts NOW.

1. Delusions of adequacy. Thus far, the heating season has been warmer than usual. This, plus a general slowdown in industry, has eased the demand for natural gas — temporarily. Do not be lulled into a false sense of security. The natural gas shortage is very real. Columbia is working hard to get additional supplies of gas because we know there simply is not enough gas currently available to meet all customer needs. We cannot afford to be complacent over a temporary easing of the problem. This chart, showing the declining gas reserves in the lower 48 states, demonstrates America's gas supply crisis:

*Anticipated

2. You're paying for the shortage. Industries that cannot get enough gas are forced to use more expensive fuels. These higher costs are passed along to you in the form of higher prices for their products. Some companies simply cannot afford the high costs of alternative fuels. In those cases, the price could be more than money . . . it could be jobs.

A new homeowner who can't get gas service must pay almost twice as much to heat with oil; four times as much to heat with electricity.

3. How will your Congressman vote? The quickest, the surest, the most effective way to increase the vital supply of natural gas is to end the present outmoded system of government control over the price producers are allowed to charge for their new gas. This outmoded system simply doesn't work. It discourages drilling when drilling should be encouraged. This outmoded system has created the natural gas shortage despite all our efforts.

Example: The current ceiling price on new gas is 52¢ a thousand cubic feet (Mcf). Columbia knows from its own experience drilling in the Gulf of Mexico, that the cost of finding and developing new gas is at least $1.50/Mcf. Would you spend $1.50 for something you could sell for only 52¢?

This month the House of Representatives will vote on a proposal to end federal controls on the price of new gas. The Senate has already passed this much-needed bill.

4. What are the choices? A government energy official recently summed up the gas supply and cost problems when he said, the choice is between paying more for less gas . . . or paying more for more gas. Unfortunately, the one thing the government can't seem to control is inflation. It continues to push up all costs, and these higher costs will be reflected in higher gas bills . . . decontrol or no decontrol.

We agree with the Federal Power Commission that "deregulation of new natural gas at the wellhead is the single, most effective measure that can be taken to alleviate the nation's severe supply-demand imbalance."

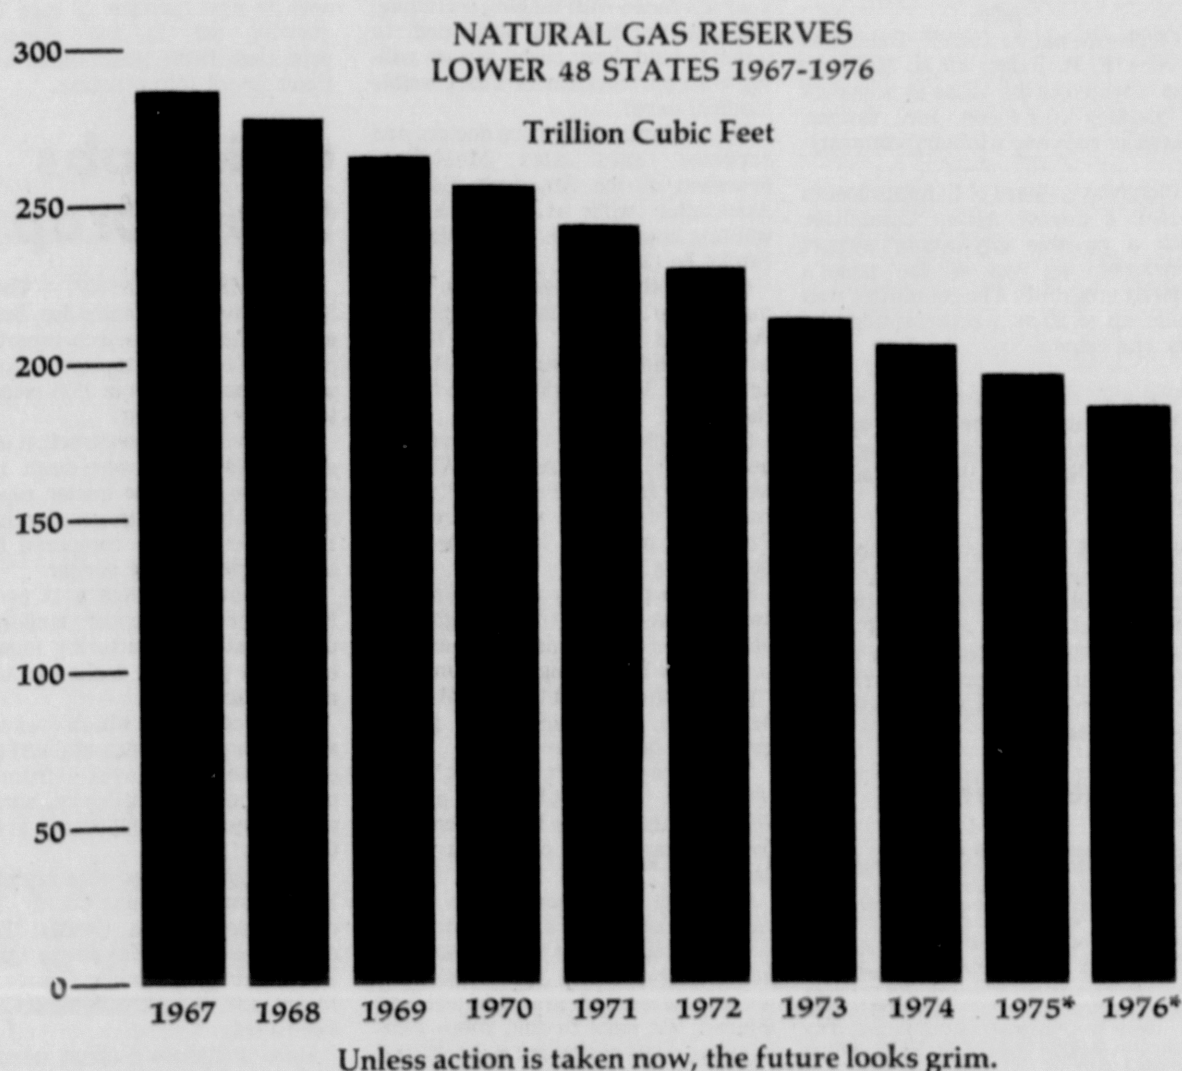

If you agree, let your Congressman know of your concern. Time is running out.

And BRIAN SULLIVAN
SECOND IN A SERIES

He is only 10 years old, but already he is diagnosed as a full-fledged alcoholic.

A shocking incident ... But it doesn't mean today's teen-agers are running full tilt after alcohol.

Yet, "all of the signs and statistics over the past couple of years have pointed to the fact that the switch is on among young people — from a wide range of other drugs to alcohol," says Dr. Morris Chafetz, a leading authority on alcohol and alcoholism.

"Arrests of young people for public drunkenness are occurring in larger numbers and at earlier ages. Alcoholics groups for teen-agers are springing up around the country, where there were none before 1970. Even among pre-teens — children between 9 and 12 years old — alcoholism is becoming more and more common."

This ominous trend now has been confirmed in stark terms by the Second Special Report on Alcohol and Health. This report contains some initial results from the largest study ever run on use of alcohol by teen-agers and "they indicate that alcohol use among young people in grades 7 through 12 is more extensive and more frequent than ever before."

Among seventh-graders, 63 per cent of boys and 54 per cent of girls have at least tried alcoholic beverages. By the 12th grade, it is 93 per cent of boys and 87 per cent of girls.

"Alcohol is far and away the drug of choice among youth," Dr. Chafetz says. Marijuana now is second, with only 40 per cent of senior high school boys and 30 per cent of girls reporting ever having used "pot."

Occasional drinking is by no means an invitation to alcoholism, and a ruined life. Parents and teachers must make this distinction, or may react with panic when they discover a teen-ager has had a drink, or is perhaps a bit tipsy, or even drunk for the first time, perhaps the only time. Some are just experimenting, as is natural among teen-agers.

Measures of the seriousness of teen-age drinking are hard to come by, says Dr. Frank A. Seixas, medical director of the National Council on Alcoholism in New York City.

There are some shocking word-of-mouth stories, Dr. Seixas says. For example: The teen-ager who goes baby-sitting and drains an inch or so from several bottles of liquor in the family cabinet, to be found drunk when the parents return home ... School custodians finding beer cans and liquor bottles in trash cans at schools ... Designated lockers at a high school where one youngster has stashed the day's liquor supply for his buddies, the teenage bar ... Reports that a few students go regularly and gladly to school because there they can find their first drink of liquor that day.

With official statistics lacking, "we cannot definitely say there is a huge increase in drinking and alcoholism among teen-agers. But it is my clinical impression that there probably is," the physician adds.

It may be no more than a fad. Even so, it is a serious matter, for addiction can lead to serious consequences.

The sexual pattern of drinking is changing. Women now account for the largest increase in the drinking problem in recent years, and the figures are rising rapidly, says Dr. Chafetz.

And a few babies are actually being born drunk to women addicted to alcohol.

Speaking Of Your Health

by Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

I have fibroid tumors of my uterus. I am 42 and in good health. Even though surgery has not been considered in my case, I'm taking a long-range view and wonder if an operation is inevitable. If so, does the entire uterus have to be removed?

Mrs. T. A., Neb.

Dear Mrs. A.:
I admire your stoic attitude and am particularly impressed by your mature approach to the problem.

You seem to be free of the fears that beset many patients with fibroids.

Fibroids are non-cancerous (benign) tumors of the womb. They occur in about 25 per cent of women. They vary in size and number. They also vary in the location of the uterus. Some lie on the inner surface; others, on the outer coat of the uterus. Most of them lie deep within the muscle of the uterus itself.

By repeated examination, doctors can note the change in size of fibroids. These changes, in addition to symptoms of pain and prolonged menstrual periods, determine the treatment in each case.

The extent of surgery is decided on at the time of operation. Sometimes, the entire uterus and the ovaries are removed.

It is possible, in some instances, to "shell out" a fibroid from the uterus, leaving the uterus itself intact. This is known as "myomectomy" in contradistinction to "hysterectomy," or the total removal of the uterus.

Surgery is not the inevitable answer to all fibroids. In many instances, the fibroids spontaneously grow smaller and, in the absence of any symptoms, no surgery is performed.

Have doctors abandoned the old grandmother's method of stopping nail biting? By that I mean applying bitter aloes to the fingernails.

Mrs. C. J., Wis.

Dear Mrs. J.:
Grandmothers' remedies may have served the superficial purpose, but they certainly did not get to the root of the problem. For nail biting in children, or adults, is evidence of some inner tension and nervousness.

Unless the cause is learned and eliminated, even if the nail biting does stop, other symptoms of emotional tension will arise.

The application of unpleasant oils is a form of punishment. Punishment is contrary to the present concepts of treating nail biting.

Business World

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — Americans this year are faced with making a chilling, life-death decision long postponed: In order to hold down costs, are we willing to accept less than the best possible medical care?

We are demanding more doctors and services, said Alex McMahon, president of the American Hospital Association, while at the same time wanting lower prices. He maintains it cannot be done.

Clearly, this problem has as much meaning to Americans as the present discussions of the federal budget deficit or inflation, but it hasn't been dealt with. We've hidden from the issue.

Said McMahon: "The American people must ask themselves, 'What do we want from the system?' The hospitals, he said, want direction. Priorities must be established for health care.

What do priorities mean? The answer: less than what might be possible, a level many Americans consider to be nothing less than their right. They might accept imperfections in manufactured goods, but not in health care.

"I answer we can't afford it," said McMahon. "We don't have the people. With the facilities we have I don't see how we can deliver on such a broad promise."

Speaking for more than 7,000 voluntary hospitals, he warned:

"The promise we no longer can make in good faith is that we will provide maximum care of the sick and injured. We need to find more cost-effective ways to prevent sickness and injuries."

Health care, in other words, must be subjected to the same cost limits as other goods and services. We could, for example, build an automobile as reliable as a space vehicle, but nobody could afford it. Affordability is a dictate.

If priorities are to be established, who makes them? Who decides who gets less and by how much? Said McMahon: "The public must answer. This is not a decision hospitals and doctors can make."

Considerable public discussion will be taking place over the next few months. By July 1, the secretary of health education and welfare must issue a statement of national health goals, objectives and priorities.

"We welcome the discussion because we think it will bring some rationality into the establishment of priorities," said McMahon, who feels that until limitations are established, continued costs increases are inevitable.

Some possibilities for savings are seen in new methods of care for the elderly, but in the absence of priorities, these possibilities are difficult to put into practice.

Ohio Jobs Show Drop

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Ohio State University Center for Business and Economic Research reports a 9 per cent decline in employment of Ohio production workers in 1975 compared to the previous year.

Employment in construction in Ohio during November was down 15 per cent from 1974, the center reported, and was also off 15 per cent for the first 11 months of 1975 compared to the same period a year earlier.

The center reported a 12 per cent November-to-November employment drop in all manufacturing industries and a 14 per cent decline in the 11-month comparison.

The center, which excludes agricultural, governmental and public education employees from its production labor category, surveyed eight major Ohio city-county areas in the study.

The biggest drops were reported in Youngstown-Mahoning County, 12 per cent; Canton-Stark County, 11 per cent; Cleveland-Cuyahoga County, and Columbus-Franklin County, both 10 per cent, and Akron-Summit County, 8 per cent.

Moderate declines were seen in Dayton-Montgomery County, 6 per cent; Cincinnati-Hamilton County, 3 per cent, and Toledo-Lucas County, 2 per cent.

'Black Fever' Epidemic Flops

DAYTON, Ohio (AP) — An epidemic of "black fever" threatened for Monday by Dayton city employees who wanted to take the day off in honor of slain civil rights leader Martin Luther King fizzled out, according to city officials.

Personnel division investigator Steve Morrissey said the number of workers absent was just slightly above normal for a Monday.

About 300 city employees signed petitions last week asking that they be allowed to take the new state holiday as a day off. City officials refused, contending that labor contracts could not be amended now to add the holiday.

Quit, Quitting . . . Quitter!

By PHYLLIS BATTELLE
NEW YORK — A study of American smokers has confirmed that women find it considerably harder to give up the smoking habit than men do . . .

This news did not particularly shock me. It did, however, unnerve me sufficiently to reach for a cigarette.

"Why are you doing that?" said a still, small voice from deep down inside where the tars and the nicotine play. "Because I'm a woman, you crummy conscience," I replied. "Oh," said still, small, "It's an old excuse, but not bad."

We females long have clung to the philosophy that it is infinitely more difficult for us to abandon our vice than it is for men. We bring it up often in mixed company, and the other half of the mix usually scoffs. (Have you noticed at parties in recent years, it is usually the men who scoff and cough — while the women are huffy and puffing?) The males can't understand it, and the females can't explain it, except to observe, feebly, that "everyone knows women find it harder."

Now even the government knows. A 5-year study of smokers (those who quit, those who quit and backslide, and those who can't even seem to give up cigarettes for more than an hour or two) was conducted by scientists who concluded that: the female sex is "far less determined" to give up the habit than are their male counterparts. And women do succeed in giving up smoking, their "relapse rate" is 38 per cent higher than men's.

The problem is that no one, not even the doctors and scientists involved, knows — even now — precisely why this is.

They think the reasons are probably as complex as females themselves. One thought is that women have a built-in, biological masochistic streak which men don't seem to possess. We kick ourselves with greater vigor and enthusiasm.

Another view is that society has conditioned women, who have been in a relatively downtrodden position over the generations, to convert unpleasant things into pleasurable things. If that theory is true, then it should be possible for today's young women — who were raised with a liberated spirit — to kick the smoking habit more easily than middle-aged women.

Until fairly recently, it would seem, part of the womanly reason for continuing to smoke was that statistics indicated cigarettes did not pose the same risk to female health that it posed to male health. However, those statistics have leveled off, and it is now generally believed the dangers of cigarettes (like the levels of intelligence) know no sexual difference. The "it-can't-happen-to-me" attitude of women toward lung cancer is definitely disappearing.

Charles Althofer of the Public Health Service, who coordinated the federally sponsored studies in 1972 known as Smoking Research — San Diego, confirmed the new female attitude. He said women always seem shocked when told that, since 1960, the increase in lung cancer among women smokers has exceeded the increase among men smokers.

However, when women are shocked, they would rather the subject be dropped.

Mr. Althofer said that some women's organizations consistently refused to accept speakers from Smoking Research and, when one has been scheduled, they occasionally cancel the speaker's appearance because of protests by members.

Men's groups, on the other hand, often specifically request anti-smoking lecturers.

Of course, one reason women may hate to stop cigarettes is that they fought so hard for the right to smoke without being socially ostracized; now, having won that battle, they're subconsciously reluctant to give up the enemy they conquered. It's like asking them to give back pants suits, college educations and equal pay.

The final, perhaps most telling theory on why women find it harder to kick old nic was offered by psychiatrist Dr. Louis Bozzetti, who suggested that women — far more than men — rely on cigarettes as a means of controlling anger and frustrations.

Right now, for many women, this is an angry and frustrating era. According to the doctor, if they would stop blowing smoke and start blowing their stacks, they'd be much healthier.

"Well now, that's a good idea," said my still, small voice.

"Oh, shut up!" I angered, frustratedly.

"Forget it," coughed still, small. "I can't stand noise pollution . . ."

Honey Production Up 6 Per Cent

WASHINGTON (AP) — Honey production in 1975 totaled 197 million pounds, up 6 per cent from 1974, the Agriculture Department says in an annual review.

Although the number of bee colonies declined 1 per cent from 1974 to 4.2 million, officials said that honey output per colony rose to an average of 47.2 pounds from 44.1 in 1974.

Honey producers — owners of the colonies, not the bees — received an average of 50.6 cents per pound last year, almost matching the 1974 record of 51 cents, the department said.

Mrs. T. A., Neb.

Dear Mrs. A.:

I admire your stoic attitude and am particularly impressed by your mature approach to the problem.

You seem to be free of the fears that beset many patients with fibroids.

Fibroids are non-cancerous (benign) tumors of the womb. They occur in about 25 per cent of women. They vary in size and number. They also vary in the location of the uterus. Some lie on the inner surface; others, on the outer coat of the uterus. Most of them lie deep within the muscle of the uterus itself.

By repeated examination, doctors can note the change in size of fibroids. These changes, in addition to symptoms of pain and prolonged menstrual periods, determine the treatment in each case.

The extent of surgery is decided on at the time of operation. Sometimes, the entire uterus and the ovaries are removed.

It is possible, in some instances, to "shell out" a fibroid from the uterus, leaving the uterus itself intact. This is known as "myomectomy" in contradistinction to "hysterectomy," or the total removal of the uterus.

Surgery is not the inevitable answer to all fibroids. In many instances, the fibroids spontaneously grow smaller and, in the absence of any symptoms, no surgery is performed.

Have doctors abandoned the old grandmother's method of stopping nail biting? By that I mean applying bitter aloes to the fingernails.

Mrs. C. J., Wis.

Dear Mrs. J.:

Grandmothers' remedies may have served the superficial purpose, but they certainly did not get to the root of the problem. For nail biting in children, or adults, is evidence of some inner tension and nervousness.

Unless the cause is learned and eliminated, even if the nail biting does stop, other symptoms of emotional tension will arise.

The application of unpleasant oils is a form of punishment. Punishment is contrary to the present concepts of treating nail biting.

Quit, Quitting . . . Quitter!

By PHYLLIS BATTELLE

NEW YORK — A study of American smokers has confirmed that women find it considerably harder to give up the smoking habit than men do.

This news did not particularly shock me. It did, however, unnerve me sufficiently to reach for a cigarette.

"Why are you doing that?" said a still, small voice from deep down inside where the tars and the nicotine play. "Because I'm a woman, you crummy conscience." I replied. "Oh," said still, small, "It's an old excuse, but not bad."

We females long have clung to the philosophy that it is infinitely more difficult for us to abandon our vice than it is for men. We bring it up often in mixed company, and the other half of the mix usually scoffs. (Have you noticed at parties in recent years, it is usually the men who scoff and cough — while the women are huffy and puffing?) The males can't understand it, and the females can't explain it, except to observe, feebly, that "everyone knows women find it harder."

Now even the government knows.

A 5-year study of smokers (those who quit, those who quit and backslide, and those who can't even seem to give up cigarettes for more than an hour or two) was conducted by scientists who concluded that: the female sex is "far less determined" to give up the habit than are their male counterparts. And women do succeed in giving up smoking, their "relapse rate" is 38 per cent higher than men's.

The problem is that no one, not even the doctors and scientists involved, knows — even now — precisely why this is.

They think the reasons are probably as complex as females themselves. One thought is that women have a built-in, biological masochistic streak which men don't seem to possess. We kick ourselves with greater vigor and enthusiasm.

Another view is that society has conditioned women, who have been in a relatively downtrodden position over the generations, to convert unpleasant things into pleasurable things. If that theory is true, then it should be possible for today's young women — who were raised with a liberated spirit — to kick the smoking habit more easily than middle-aged women.

Until fairly recently, it would seem, part of the womanly reason for continuing to smoke was that statistics indicated cigarettes did not pose the same risk to female health that it posed to male health. However, those statistics have leveled off, and it is now generally believed the dangers of cigarettes (like the levels of intelligence) know no sexual difference. The "it-can't-happen-to-me" attitude of women toward lung cancer is definitely disappearing.

Charles Althafer of the Public Health Service, who coordinated the federally sponsored studies in 1972 known as Smoking Research — San Diego, confirmed the new female attitude. He said women always seem shocked when told that, since 1960, the increase in lung cancer among women smokers has exceeded the increase among men smokers.

However, when women are shocked, they would rather the subject be dropped.

Mr. Althafer said that some women's organizations consistently refused to accept speakers from Smoking Research and, when one has been scheduled, they occasionally cancel the speaker's appearance because of protests by members.

Men's groups, on the other hand, often specifically request anti-smoking lecturers.

Of course, one reason women may hate to stop cigarettes is that they fought so hard for the right to smoke without being socially ostracized; now, having won that battle, they're subconsciously reluctant to give up the enemy they conquered. It's like asking them to give back pants suits, college educations and equal pay.

The final, perhaps most telling theory on why women find it harder to kick old nic was offered by psychiatrist Dr. Louis Bozzetti, who suggested that women — far more than men — rely on cigarettes as a means of controlling anger and frustrations.

Right now, for many women, this is an angry and frustrating era. According to the doctor, if they would stop blowing smoke and start blowing their stacks, they'd be much healthier.

"Well now, that's a good idea," said my still, small voice.

"Oh, shut up!" I angered, frustratedly.

"Forget it," coughed still, small. "I can't stand noise pollution..."

Honey Production Up 6 Per Cent

WASHINGTON (AP) — Honey production in 1975 totaled 197 million pounds, up 6 per cent from 1974, the Agriculture Department says in an annual review.

Although the number of bee colonies declined 1 per cent from 1974 to 4.2 million, officials said that honey output per colony rose to an average of 47.2 pounds from 44.1 in 1974.

Honey producers — owners of the colonies, not the bees — received an average of 50.6 cents per pound last year, almost matching the 1974 record of 51 cents, the department said.

Ohio Jobs Show Drop

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Ohio State University Center for Business and Economic Research reports a 9 per cent decline in employment of Ohio production workers in 1975 compared to the previous year.

Employment in construction in Ohio during November was down 15 per cent from 1974, the center reported, and was also off 15 per cent for the first 11 months of 1975 compared to the same period a year earlier.

The center reported a 12 per cent November-to-November employment drop in all manufacturing industries and a 14 per cent decline in the 11-month comparison.

The center, which excludes agricultural, governmental and public education employees from its production labor category, surveyed eight major Ohio city-county areas in the study.

The biggest drops were reported in Youngstown-Mahoning County, 12 per cent; Canton-Stark County, 11 per cent; Cleveland-Cuyahoga County, and Columbus-Franklin County, both 10 per cent, and Akron-Summit County, 8 per cent.

More moderate declines were seen in Dayton-Montgomery County, 6 per cent; Cincinnati-Hamilton County, 3 per cent, and Toledo-Lucas County, 2 per cent.

'Black Fever' Epidemic Flops

DAYTON, Ohio (AP) — An epidemic of "black fever" threatened for Monday by Dayton city employees who wanted to take the day off in honor of slain civil rights leader Martin Luther King fizzled out, according to city officials.

Personnel division investigator Steve Morrissey said the number of workers absent was just slightly above normal for a Monday.

About 300 city employees signed petitions last week asking that they be allowed to take the new state holiday as a day off. City officials refused, contending that labor contracts could not be amended now to add the holiday.

Jaycees Changed Name In 1965

The Circleville Herald 5
Tuesday January 20, 1976

In 1965 the Circleville Junior Chamber of Commerce officially changed its name to Circleville Jaycees.

The purpose of the change was to achieve an identity not associated with any other organization.

The Jaycees are a non-profit organization founded on community service and individual development. Jaycees is not a professional or business men's organization, but gets membership from all walks of life. The only requirements for membership are that the prospective Jaycee must be between 18 and 35 and must have the desire to see his community become a better place to live.

The Jaycee organization serves the dual purpose of providing leadership training while promoting community service.

The broad aims of Circleville Jaycees are to train young men for leadership, to give young men a voice in community affairs, to allow young men to participate in community activities, to improve the community by conducting community service and to conduct improvement programs to further Democracy and the free enterprise system.

Jaycee experience provides opportunities for young men to meet and know young civic leaders, to help direct the Jaycee organization, to correct community problems through Jaycee projects. This experience also helps the Jaycee become a leader in the community.

On Feb. 28 the Circleville Jaycees will have a membership night to encourage young men to become a part of the Jaycee movement.

Lou McFarland is chairing this meeting and will give a brief description of the Jaycee movement and history of its progress in Circleville. The Jaycees will furnish refreshments during the meeting.

Young men interested are invited to attend the meeting which begins at 8 p.m. in the Jaycee Club Rooms, 107½ W. Main St.

The organization of the Circleville Chapter is served by a district, region, state and national organization that provides help with chapter problems and exposure to ideas from chapters in other towns and cities.

The officers of the local organization are:

As a chapter, Circleville has won many honors, including Outstanding Chapter in District, Outstanding Chapter in the State, the coveted Gold Chip Award.

The duties of officers in the Jaycees are well defined.

The state director has a very important job of communications between the state and local levels. Through him, the individual chapters can stay informed about important projects supported on the state level.

The president of the local chapter has the privilege of representing the Jaycees at public affairs and the responsibility of proposing the year's budget and most important, establishing the general goals and direction of chapter activities.

The vice-presidents are each responsible for coordinating chapter efforts in one of two general areas—internal and external. Internal affairs deal directly with the chapter to maintain membership, adequate funds and the smooth operation of chapter affairs. External efforts are those projects intended to aid, support and recognize community individuals outside the chapter.

The secretary keeps meeting minutes, and handles all chapter communications.

The treasurer is responsible for all money and fiscal transactions.

Directorships are specific areas under either internal or external efforts. The director's main responsibility is to find chairmen for projects in their respective area, see that projects are carried through to completion on time and report to their vice president.

Internal directorships include chapter development, social and ways and means. Those projects in the area of chapter development deal with activation, membership drives and individual improvement.

The social director arranges all banquets, dances and parties for the club.

Ways and means is vital to chapter functions. It is the foundation for ability to be effective in bettering the community.

External directorships are divided into two areas—youth and sports and community involvement. These areas include activities as implied by their names. Projects in these two areas are given highest priority in Jaycee goals because the Jaycees are a service organization.

Individual members have won awards in the district, region state and national level.

OFFICERS — The duties of officers in the Jaycees are well defined. The local chapter officers are, seated, from the left: Bruce Bell, president; Larry Stant, secretary; Dale Davis, treasurer; standing, Steve Barthelmas, internal vice president; Bob Conley, external vice president.

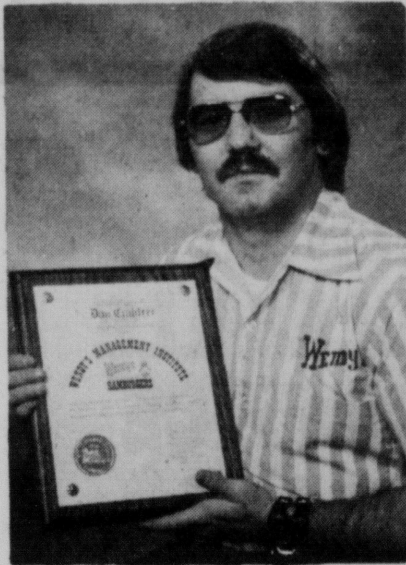

DIRECTORS — The responsibility of directors in the Jaycees is to see that projects are carried through to completion. Directors of the Circleville Jaycees are, seated, from the left: Bob Helwagen, Dave Buckel; standing, Ed Boyer, Mike Gilmore, Fred Marshall.

State Highway Patrol officers investigated six accidents Monday afternoon after the freezing rain hit. Only one of the accidents in the county resulted in injuries.

Eighteen-year-old Cathy I. Bouillion of Chillicothe was injured and taken to her family physician after the car in which she was a passenger was involved in an accident.

Driver of the auto was John E. Lloyd, 19, Chillicothe. According to Ptl. Dale Cline's report, Lloyd was northbound on Route 23 at 3:30 p.m. crossing the Apple House bridge when he struck another vehicle.

The other vehicle was driven by Paul E. McClellan, 20, Columbus. He was also northbound on Route 23 when he lost control of the car on the ice-covered highway.

McClellan's auto came to rest in the middle of the two northbound lanes and was struck by Lloyd's car.

The officer said that indications were Lloyd had applied his brakes but could not stop on the ice. No citations have been made in the accident at this time.

Statue Of Liberty

By YOUR WESTFALL BICENTENNIAL MINUTEMAN
"Give me your tired, your poor, Your huddled masses yearning to breathe free, The Wretched refuse of your teeming shore. Send these, the homeless, tempest-tost to me, I lift my lamp beside the golden door!" These are the words inscribed on a tablet in the main entrance to the pedestal of the Statue of Liberty. How these words must have offered hope to the immigrants on their arrival in America. American and foreign visitors have been impressed at these words and the great statue since its unveiling on October 28, 1886.

Designed by Frederic Auguste Bartholdi; it was presented to the United States on July 4, 1884 in Paris. It was transported to the United States in 214 pieces by battleship. President Cleveland dedicated it on October 28, 1886. This magnificent statue stands over Liberty Island at the entrance of New York Harbor.

The Statue of Liberty, also known as the Liberty Enlightening the World, was a gift to Americans by the French people. It was given to us to celebrate our 100th anniversary of independence. Also a memorial of the friendship between France and the United States, it represents the ideals of our government and our many freedoms.

IRS Offers Additional Service

COLUMBUS — Dwight L. James, Jr., Internal Revenue Service director for Southern Ohio, announced today that toll-free telephone service is now available to taxpayers until 6 p.m., Monday through Friday. These extended hours of service will continue throughout the filing period, April 15, 1976.

Taxpayers residing in the Columbus local call area may dial 228-0520 to obtain assistance. Taxpayers calling from outside the Columbus local calling area should dial 1-800-582-1700 to obtain toll-free telephone assistance, James said.

James pointed out that most calls for assistance are received between ten in the morning and four in the afternoon, and taxpayers calling during this period may experience a brief wait until they reach an assistant. James suggested taxpayers may wish to take advantage of the 8-10 a.m. and 4-6 p.m. time periods to call for assistance.

Extended hours of service for taxpayers desiring help in preparing their income tax returns were also announced today by James. The IRS Office located in Room 100, at 261 South Third Street, will be open until 6 p.m., Monday through Friday, throughout the filing period to provide his service. Office hours for both telephone and walk-in assistance will be 8 a.m. to 6 p.m., Monday through Friday, through April 15, James said.

Hay Crop Larger Than Predictions

WASHINGTON (AP) — The 1975 hay crop turned out a little larger than the Agriculture Department had expected, but officials say supplies probably will be tight until this year's crop is ready.

Production was estimated at 132.9 million tons, second only to 1973 output of 134.8 million, according to USDA surveys. That put 1975 hay production about 5 per cent above 1974's weather-reduced harvest of 127.1 million tons.

Last fall USDA forecast total hay production in 1975 at 130 million tons.

But hay prices, which have been at record peaks the past year or two, are not expected to decline substantially because of a large demand for winter forage. Thus, by the time the new 1976-77 hay marketing year begins on May 1 the stockpile may be down to 18 million to 20 million tons, the smallest in eight years, according to preliminary indications, a USDA official said Monday.

One reason for the big demand is that the nation's cattle inventory is huge. Also, since grain-feeding of cattle has been cut back sharply the past couple of years there has been a heavy drain on forage supplies.

Another reason for the current demand is that winter wheat in much of the Great Plains, particularly in southern areas, did not develop well before cold weather last fall. That has meant less wheat forage for grazing livestock and more need for hay.

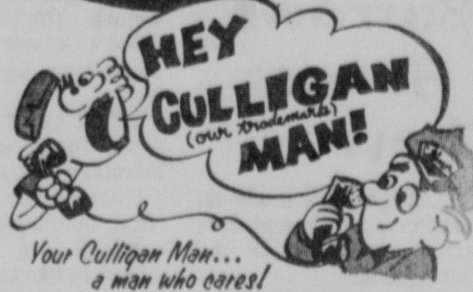

Nationally, the average price of baled hay — which includes all types — rose to a record of $56.30 a ton last May. Despite the record crop, the Dec. 15 average was $51.60 a ton. Officials say it is possible that prices by late spring could equal or possibly exceed the record of last May if severe winter conditions persist later than usual.

Hay prices averaged in the range of $24 to $28 per ton for several years before grain prices began soaring in 1972-73 and cattle producers turned more heavily to forage as an alternative. In 1972, the all-hay price averaged $31.30 per ton and then jumped to $41.60 in 1973. The 1974 average soared against to $50.60 for the entire season.

FHA Featured

By BRIDGET ELLIOTT and VANESSA LONG

One of the most hard-working clubs at Westfall this year is the Future Homemakers of America. This group is comprised of Home Economics students, who do many projects throughout the year.

So far this year, the FHA has made Halloween favors for Brooks Yates School, held a Christmas tea for the Westfall faculty, made Christmas favors for the Children's Hospital, and held a skating party with all proceeds going to Children's Hospital.

The Home Ec window always has lovely, and interesting displays because of this group's efforts.

The FHA has held several money-making projects this year. They had their annual apple sale, a stationery sale, and a bake sale. They are planning three more bake sales in the future.

Other future projects include a field trip to Children's Hospital, valentine favors for Berger Hospital and Easter favors for Orient State Hospital. Members of the club will attend the state convention in April. FHA week will be Feb. 8-14, and several activities are planned for the week. The club's year will end with a banquet, May 3.

Officers of the club are Tina Cottrill, president; Doreen Downs, vice-president; Debbie Caudill, secretary; Pam Garrison, treasurer; Kelly Betts, historian and photographer; Barb Harper, parliamentarian; Delia Ward, news reporter; Sabrina Betts, song

By YOUR WESTFALL BICENTENNIAL MINUTEMAN

"Give me your tired, your poor, Your huddled masses yearning to breathe free, The Wretched refuse of your teeming shore. Send these, the homeless, tempest-tost to me, I lift my lamp beside the golden door!"

These are the words inscribed on a tablet in the main entrance to the pedestal of the Statue of Liberty. How these words must have offered hope to the immigrants on their arrival in America. American and foreign visitors have been impressed at these words and the great statue since its unveiling on October 28, 1886.

Designed by Frederic Auguste Bartholdi; it was presented to the United States on July 4, 1884 in Paris. It was transported to the United States in 214 pieces by battleship. President Cleveland dedicated it on October 28, 1886. This magnificent statue stands over Liberty Island at the entrance of New York Harbor.

The Statue of Liberty, also known as the Liberty Enlightening the World, was a gift to Americans by the French people. It was given to us to celebrate our 100th anniversary of independence. Also a memorial of the friendship between France and the United States, it represents the ideals of our government and our many freedoms.

IRS Offers Additional Service

COLUMBUS — Dwight L. James, Jr., Internal Revenue Service director for Southern Ohio, announced today that toll-free telephone service is now available to taxpayers until 6 p.m., Monday through Friday. These extended hours of service will continue throughout the filing period, April 15, 1976.

Taxpayers residing in the Columbus local call area may dial 228-0520 to obtain assistance. Taxpayers calling from outside the Columbus local calling area should dial 1-800-582-1700 to obtain toll-free telephone assistance, James said.

James pointed out that most calls for assistance are received between ten in the morning and four in the afternoon, and taxpayers calling during this period may experience a brief wait until they reach an assistant. James suggested taxpayers may wish to take advantage of the 8-10 a.m. and 4-6 p.m. time periods to call for assistance.

Extended hours of service for taxpayers desiring help in preparing their income tax returns were also announced today by James. The IRS Office located in Room 100, at 261 South Third Street, will be open until 6 p.m., Monday through Friday, throughout the filing period to provide his service. Office hours for both telephone and walk-in assistance will be 8 a.m. to 6 p.m., Monday through Friday, through April 15, James said.

Hay Crop Larger Than Predictions

WASHINGTON (AP) — The 1975 hay crop turned out a little larger than the Agriculture Department had expected, but officials say supplies probably will be tight until this year's crop is ready.

Production was estimated at 132.9 million tons, second only to 1973 output of 134.8 million, according to USDA surveys. That put 1975 hay production about 5 per cent above 1974's weather-reduced harvest of 127.1 million tons.

Last fall USDA forecast total hay production in 1975 at 130 million tons.

But hay prices, which have been at record peaks the past year or two, are not expected to decline substantially because of a large demand for winter forage. Thus, by the time the new 1976-77 hay marketing year begins on May 1 the stockpile may be down to 18 million to 20 million tons, the smallest in eight years, according to preliminary indications, a USDA official said Monday.

Dear Abby:

By Abigail Van Buren
Her Father Wants Proof

DEAR ABBY: I am 16, nearly 17, and I'm an honor student. I have always had a good relationship with my parents-until now.

About three months ago I met the most wonderful guy in the world. I'll call him Sammy. It was love at first sight! Sammy is really 23, but we told my parents he is 20 because if they knew how old he was, they wouldn't let me go with him. Sammy is also divorced and has a 3-year-old son who lives with his ex-wife. We didn't tell my parents about the little boy. We just told them that Sammy was divorced.

Sammy wants to marry me, but we don't plan on getting married until I am finished with school.

The problem is my father. He has a very suspicious mind. He says I can't see Sammy again until Sammy produces legal evidence of his divorce.

Abby, I trust Sammy, but I'm afraid if I ask him to show my father proof of his divorce, Sammy will be so hurt and insulted at having been called a liar he will quit seeing me. Don't you think my father is being unreasonable?

I love Sammy so much, I can't live without him. Please help me.

SAMMY'S GIRL

DEAR GIRL: Sorry, I'm inclined to go along with your father. You and Sammy are already withholding facts about Sammy's real age and his son, which is deceitful. If Sammy doesn't want to bring all the facts out in the open, he's less than "wonderful." Be wise. Listen to your father.

DEAR ABBY: I am a widow, age 64. Last year I met a man my age whose wife had died the year before.

We are in love. He would be an ideal mate except for one thing. He is very egotistical and likes to see how he registers with other women (waitresses, especially.) In other words, he tries to make me jealous.

This is a small town and there are no men around with whom I can make him jealous, so I am unable to get even.

Please tell me how to handle this successfully.

HURT AND JEALOUS

DEAR HURT: Don't try to fight fire with fire unless you want your chances to go up in smoke.

Tell him frankly that you are hurt and jealous when he flirts with other women. (He'll be flattered.) If he doesn't cut out the flirting after that, you'll know he doesn't care how you feel.

DEAR ABBY: Four years ago I had a son out of wedlock. We talked of marriage, but it never came about.

I named my son after his father, (first, middle and last name) with his approval.

I would like to know if it is illegal or immoral to name an out-of-wedlock child after his father.

CONFUSED

DEAR CONFUSED: It is not illegal. But if the father has a legitimate son named after him, two sons with identical names could create embarrassment and confusion. And to intentionally create such a situation, when it could have been avoided, I think is morally wrong.

DEAR ABBY: About that bride who didn't want any fat bridesmaids to ruin the appearance of her wedding: I hope her fat friends will remember her with "skinny" wedding gifts!

WC Barrows Win Honors At Show

Wilmington College hogs made an excellent showing at the recent 1976 Buckeye Barrow Show, held at the Ohio State Fair Grounds.

A cross-bred barrow bred at the Wilmington College farms showed the highest rate of grain of any of the barrows on the performance barrow feed test and took first place in Class 3 at the show.

The Winter Performance Barrow Test at Wilmington College was under the direction of Mike Bayes, Livestock Herdsman at the College.

Bayes is the son of Mr. and Mrs. James Bayes, of Orient, and is a graduate of Westfall High School and Ohio State University.

Two other Wilmington College barrows took second and third places in Class 4 (heavyweight).

Originally, 105 hogs were brought to the Wilmington College farms in early October to participate in the Buckeye Barrow feed test program.

They came from 40 different Ohio hog producers, including Wilmington College and Ohio State University. Each producer could enter up to three barrows.

At the final weigh-in on January 8, all hogs that had reached a minimum weight of 195 pounds were eligible for the show at the Fair Grounds. A total of 91 were eligible.

The hogs were then shipped from the Wilmington College farms to the Ohio State Fair Grounds via transportation provided by Marvin Beam, a livestock feeder from Port William, Ohio. His son, Bruce, is a senior majoring in agriculture at Wilmington College.

Wilmington College is the only institution in the state, other than Ohio State University, with a fully-accredited, four-year program in agriculture. Dr. Gerald L. Karr is Chairman of the Wilmington College Agriculture Department.

Dear Abby:

By Abigail Van Buren

Her Father Wants Proof

DEAR ABBY: I am 16, nearly 17, and I'm an honor student. I have always had a good relationship with my parents-until now.

About three months ago I met the most wonderful guy in the world. I'll call him Sammy. It was love at first sight! Sammy is really 23, but we told my parents he is 20 because if they knew how old he was, they wouldn't let me go with him. Sammy is also divorced and has a 3-year-old son who lives with his ex-wife. We didn't tell my parents about the little boy. We just told them that Sammy was divorced.

Sammy wants to marry me, but we don't plan on getting married until I am finished with school.

The problem is my father. He has a very suspicious mind. He says I can't see Sammy again until Sammy produces legal evidence of his divorce.

Abby, I trust Sammy, but I'm afraid if I ask him to show my father proof of his divorce, Sammy will be so hurt and insulted at having been called a liar he will quit seeing me. Don't you think my father is being unreasonable?

I love Sammy so much, I can't live without him. Please help me.

SAMMY'S GIRL

DEAR GIRL: Sorry, I'm inclined to go along with your father. You and Sammy are already withholding facts about Sammy's real age and his son, which is deceitful. If Sammy doesn't want to bring all the facts out in the open, he's less than "wonderful." Be wise. Listen to your father.

DEAR ABBY: I am a widow, age 64. Last year I met a man my age whose wife had died the year before.

We are in love. He would be an ideal mate except for one thing. He is very egotistical and likes to see how he registers with other women (waitresses, especially). In other words, he tries to make me jealous.

This is a small town and there are no men around with whom I can make him jealous, so I am unable to get even.

Please tell me how to handle this successfully.

HURT AND JEALOUS

DEAR HURT: Don't try to fight fire with fire unless you want your chances to go up in smoke.

Tell him frankly that you are hurt and jealous when he flirts with other women. (He'll be flattered.) If he doesn't cut out the flirting after that, you'll know he doesn't care how you feel.

DEAR ABBY: Four years ago I had a son out of wedlock. We talked of marriage, but it never came about.

I named my son after his father, (first, middle and last name) with his approval.

I would like to know if it is illegal or immoral to name an out-of-wedlock child after his father.

WC Barrows Win Honors At Show

Wilmington College hogs made an excellent showing at the recent 1976 Buckeye Barrow Show, held at the Ohio State Fair Grounds.

A cross-bred barrow bred at the Wilmington College farms showed the highest rate of grain of any of the barrows on the performance barrow feed test and took first place in Class 3 at the show.

The Winter Performance Barrow Test at Wilmington College was under the direction of Mike Bayes, Livestock Herdsman at the College.

Bayes is the son of Mr. and Mrs. James Bayes, of Orient, and is a graduate of Westfall High School and Ohio State University.

Two other Wilmington College barrows took second and third places in Class 4 (heavyweight).

Originally, 105 hogs were brought to the Wilmington College farms in early October to participate in the Buckeye Barrow feed test program.

At the final weigh-in on January 8, all hogs that had reached a minimum weight of 195 pounds were eligible for the show at the Fair Grounds. A total of 91 were eligible.

The hogs were then shipped from the Wilmington College farms to the Ohio State Fair Grounds via transportation provided by Marvin Beam, a livestock feeder from Port William, Ohio. His son, Bruce, is a senior majoring in agriculture at Wilmington College.

Wilmington College is the only institution in the state, other than Ohio State University, with a fully-accredited, four-year program in agriculture. Dr. Gerald L. Karr is Chairman of the Wilmington College Agriculture Department.

For Your Painting Needs, See J. E. Peters, Inc.

When you say industrial painting, some people think of a little bigger brush and a little longer ladder. To be correct in thinking, industrial painting is a highly technical field. There are many techniques unknown to the orinary painter or painting contractor.

To explain a few:

Sandblasting or abrasive blast cleaning is a common procedure used in the painting field. It is the cleaning of surfaces by the action of abrasives propelled by compressed air through a nozzle. This is the first step in preparing steel for the final paint job.

Our equipment used has all Occupational Safety and Health Act (OSHA) approved safety features to protect working personnel with precautions taken to insure safety in the area. The sandblasting done by J. E. Peters, Inc. is handled by trained, experienced operators only.

The right paint engineering determines how a final job will look and last. Paints have changed drastically in the past several years and Peters has progressed with the changes to give you the best job possible. There is a correct paint for your particular paint job. Let us determine the right paint for you — be it an office, store, or complete factory. We have the latest in airless spray painting equipment as well as the conventional equipment. We also have high pressure washers and air compressors from 20 cubic feet per minute to 365 cubic feet per minute and all equipment is highly mobile.

Painting of elevated structures is another part of J. E. Peters, Inc. This includes in part-elevated water tanks, inside or out; grain leg elevators and storage bins, multiple story buildings, smoke stacks, towers and more. This again is a specialty. Special equipment must be employed to get to the area to be painted or you have a "hit and miss application which, in most cases, will not hold up. Safety, the equipment used and only experienced high men handle these duties.

Technical applications are a part of the painting field which only a qualified contractor should attempt. With the controversy surrounding the use of special chemicals, a contractor must have the proper equipment, take all necessary precautions, and, if not sure of the risk involved, get expert advice or leave the job alone. We stay clear if any doubt of safety comes up. No one contractor can do everything. At J. E. Peters, Inc., we can handle tank linings or special chemical sealings in most cases.

J. E. Peters, Inc. can solve your next paint problem — be it industrial, commercial, or residential. From a experience of 35 plus years has been with the company for the past 15 years serving in the capacity of job foreman; and Floyd (Stoney) Stonerock, has been with the company going on 15 years. He is experienced in high work as well as other painting.

ORGANIZED in 1935, painting has been in this one family for three generations. Certainly not a fly-by-night operation, it has been proven by the length of time the business has spanned. The year 1974 marked a turning point for the company. First known as Peter's Decorating Service, started by the late Edwin W. Peters, later changed to J. E. Peters Painting, we are now J. E. Peters, Inc. The past cooperative service, quality workshop and competitive pricing will in no way change as our size and number of clients we service increases.

By BOB BENSONHAVER

Well, as I sit and ponder over what activities to use to describe this week's bowling, I'll just say it in one phase. Here's "bowling at its best."

Fred Eveland was number one man in the Monday League bowling a magnificent, 210-570.

Charlett Coleman and Alice Shoemaker were top squaws as they bowled 208 and 490 respectively. Bev Tracy didn't take any time for coffee as she scattered the pins with a 191-535.

Team Highs for the week, Savings Bank, 1077-3134; Hott Music, 1085; Jack's Tavern, 3113; DuPont Maintenance, 1079 and Drifters, 3065.

Until next time, happy bowling.

Friday night when they take on the Red Streaks of Piketon on the Mustangs' court.

Coach Asa Bradbury and his Logan Elm Braves have a pair of must win games on tap if they want to retain their share of the Mid State League lead.

The Braves are currently sharing the league lead with Fairfield Union with a record of 7-1 and have an overall mark of 8-3 for the season.

Jeff Reichelderfer is holding down third place in the league scoring with an average of 17.7. The other four starters for the Braves will probably be Chuck Cave at the other forward post, Mike Miller at center with Scott Allen and Mark Skippers holding down the guard spots.

Logan Elm is averaging 67 points per game while allowing the opposition 52.6.

Fisher Catholic is 1-6 in league play and 1-8 overall. They are scoring 59 points per contest and giving up 80.4. Joe Bowes leads the Fisher scorers with a 17.1 game average and will be the man for the Braves to stop.

Wrestling Correction

After Houston lost its sixth football game in seven starts in 1975, coach Bill Yeoman said "young teams usually get better with age, but right now the college coaches are aging faster than the players."

NHL All-Star Tilt Tonight

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Coach Fred Shero lounged cross-legged on a metal chair, revealing two green socks that obviously did not match, and talked about last year's National Hockey League All-Star game.

"After the game I felt terrible," he said, the tone in his voice not quite convincing a crowd of newsmen that he — or anybody else — had taken the 7-1 loss seriously last January. "I took the game too lightly. I was more interested in getting all the players on the ice for equal amounts of time, rather than worrying about winning."

"This time, it's going to be different," he continued. "I don't want to go down in history as the only coach to lose two All-Star games. This year, we're going to win!"

"We" is the Clarence Campbell Conference squad of stars which will face the Prince of Wales Conference team at the Spectrum tonight in the NHL's 29th All-Star game. "It's important that we play to win," said Shero, who coaches the Philadelphia Flyers when not guiding all-stars at mid-season as he has the past two years.

Indiana Retains Grip On Cage Poll Lead

By JOHN NELSON
AP Sports Writer
Indiana, with a pair of convincing Big Ten victories, maintained its stranglehold on the No. 1 spot and un-and-down-again Wake Forest went down again in The Associated Press major college basketball poll released today.

Indiana whipped Michigan State 69-57 and then clobbered Illinois 83-55 last week, and a nationwide panel of sports writers and broadcasters responded by naming the Hoosiers first on 62 of 63 ballots cast. Indiana, now 14-0 and only one of three undefeated teams in the Top 20, polled 1,258 points.

The next three spots remained the same. Maryland, 13-1, was second with 1,033 points, Marquette, 11-1, third with 952 and Nevada-Las Vegas, 18-0, fourth with 816.

Wake Forest, which held the No. 5 spot last week, shot into the poll three weeks ago with stunning upsets of North Carolina and North Carolina State in the Big Four Classic, only to lose stature the following week with a loss to Virginia. And last week, the 11-3 Deacons lost a pair to Clemson and North Carolina, dropping all the way to 14th.

Moving into the fifth spot was North Carolina, seventh last week. The 12-2 Tar Heels got 592 points after Atlantic Coast Conference victories over Wake Forest 99-74 and Duke 89-87.

UCLA, 13-2, moved from eighth to sixth with victories over Stanford and California. The defending national champion Bruins, after being surprised by Oregon State the week before, regained enough stature to poll 576 points.

Rutgers, the third undefeated team at 13-0, climbed from 10th to seventh by beating Columbia 94-65 and Bucknell 105-82. The Scarlet Knights

MSU Hurt In Recruiting By Charges

EAST LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Michigan State already is losing out in highly-competitive high school recruiting because of charges pending against the school, says assistant football coach Howard Weyers, a key figure in the probe.

Weyers, reportedly the subject of 33 charges of recruiting violations under consideration by the National Collegiate Athletic Association, says he recently lost a star player because of the cloud hanging over MSU.

"I lost one kid from Ohio, a mid-year graduate, to Michigan because he wanted to start school right away, and I couldn't promise his parents whether or not I'd still be at State when this is over," he said.

Weyers and another assistant, Charles Butler, reportedly are to be dismissed under a tentative NCAA ruling. Weyers and representatives of the school appeared before the NCAA Executive Council on Sunday to appeal the proposed penalties, which have not been made public.

The penalties could include three-year probation, which would bar MSU from television and bowl appearances, according to a recent report in the Detroit News.

The Lansing State Journal said Monday notes discarded by one of the executive council members showed MSU had pleaded guilty to 15 of the charges against the school. The total number of charges reportedly is about 70.

got 541 points from pollsters. Eighth was Washington, which slipped from sixth last week after a 72-70 loss to Oregon State. The Huskies, 14-1, got 516 points. They were followed by St. John's, 13-1, with 505 points, and Tennessee, 12-2, with 302. St. John's had been 12th the week before but beat Hawaii 74-71 in overtime and Villanova 57-53. Tennessee slipped one notch from ninth after a tough SEC loss to Vanderbilt.

North Carolina State, 12-2, which dipped to 13th last week, lost 87-69 to Maryland last week but the Wolfpack redeemed itself with a thrilling 68-67 upset of rival North Carolina Sunday to move up to 11th with 292 points.

Alabama, 11-2, fell from 11th to 12th this week after losing 71-70 to Florida. Oregon State, 11-4, climbed all the way from 17th to 13th with that victory over Washington. Wake Forest was 14th and Notre Dame, 9-3, was 15th.

Alabama got 252 points, Oregon State 207, Wake Forest 164 and the Irish 163. Notre Dame had been 15th the previous week also.

Rounding out the Top 20 were No. 16 Cincinnati, 13-2, 14th last week, 160 points; No. 17 Michigan, 11-3, 16th last week, 106; No. 18 Missouri, 13-2, 20th last week, 74; West Texas State, 12-1, again 19th, 45, and newcomer Virginia Tech, 12-2, 18 points.

MSU Hurt In Recruiting By Charges

EAST LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Michigan State already is losing out in highly-competitive high school recruiting because of charges pending against the school, says assistant football coach Howard Weyers, a key figure in the probe.

Weyers, reportedly the subject of 33 charges of recruiting violations under consideration by the National Collegiate Athletic Association, says he recently lost a star player because of the cloud hanging over MSU.

"I lost one kid from Ohio, a mid-year graduate, to Michigan because he wanted to start school right away, and I couldn't promise his parents whether or not I'd still be at State when this is over," he said.

Weyers and another assistant, Charles Butler, reportedly are to be dismissed under a tentative NCAA ruling. Weyers and representatives of the school appeared before the NCAA Executive Council on Sunday to appeal the proposed penalties, which have not been made public.

The penalties could include three-year probation, which would bar MSU from television and bowl appearances, according to a recent report in the Detroit News.

The Lansing State Journal said Monday notes discarded by one of the executive council members showed MSU had pleaded guilty to 15 of the charges against the school. The total number of charges reportedly is about 70.

Railroad Keeps America Beautiful

NEW YORK (AP) — A railroad can hardly be expected to contribute much to the pulchritude of the countryside it chugs through, but one western line has been voted a special award for its efforts to beautify America.

The national nonprofit organization working for a better environment, Keep America Beautiful, has awarded its top industry award for 1975 to Burlington Northern Inc. of St. Paul, Minn., for the reclaiming of more than 1,000 acres of semi-arid rangeland which had been surface-mined for coal between 1924 and 1958.

The cost of the three-year reclamation project in Montana was $675,000 or about $650 per acre. BN's agricultural specialists used many of the techniques of erosion control, reseeding and fertilization that had been learned in managing the company's some one million acres of western grazing land.

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

FOR WEDNESDAY

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 20): You should win top-grade returns from your efforts now. Adhere to well-tested procedure. Emphasize your individualism and perceptiveness.

TAURUS (Apr. 21 to May 21): Curb an inclination to take on more than you can reasonably handle. You will only scatter energies and accomplish less in the long run.

GEMINI (May 22 to June 21): How you accept vicissitudes AND advantages will mean the difference between just getting by and doing well. This day has the makings of a big success story if you are alert.

CANCER (June 22 to July 23): Small matters may conspire to try and keep you from accomplishing what you set out to do — and must. Be firm! Direct energies only to worthwhile areas.

LEO (July 24 to Aug. 23): An old acquaintance will do you a very good turn — quite unexpectedly. In fact, your relationships with others, generally, should be unusually congenial.

VIRGO (Aug. 24 to Sept. 23): Don't permit trifles to be blown out of proportion. The mountain which grows from a molehill is usually unbelievably difficult to conquer.

LIBRA (Sept. 24 to Oct. 23): Keep plans flexible; changing situations could make revision necessary. On the personal side: romance and cultural interests highly favored.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24 to Nov. 22): You are one of the few in a position to take strong and progressive action now, but be careful not to make too many waves. A certain amount of discretion needed.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23 to Dec. 21): Influences somewhat adverse toward financial matters. Don't make unnecessary purchases and don't let your natural optimism lead you into speculative ventures.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20): Information needed to consummate a business deal now forthcoming. With the added facts on hand, proceed as originally planned.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19): Some difficulty in personal relationships indicated. Persons close to you may be unresponsive, even hostile to your plans. But hold your temper lest small arguments escalate out of all proportion.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20): Neither borrow nor lend now. Even small, "friendly" transactions are likely to cause some unpleasantness in the future.

YOU BORN TODAY are endowed with great pride, versatility and discrimination. Your goals are lofty ones and, with your many talents and perseverance, you usually attain them. If you take up an artistic profession, — and you do have talents along this line, you would do exceptionally well at painting, dancing or playing a musical instrument. In other fields, you could succeed as a teacher, librarian, politician or writer.

NEW YORK (AP) — Two new programs are premiering on TV tonight. One is "Popi," a CBS situation comedy. The other is public television's "The Adams Chronicles," a red-ink series about a blue-blood family.

The latter show, which ran $1.5 million over its original $3.9-million production budget because of delays blamed on a writers' strike and script revisions, is quite an ambitious project.

It dramatizes the lives of four generations of the historic Adams family of Massachusetts and the family's contributions to the nation, from pre-Revolutionary War times to around 1900.

After an advance peep at tonight's show, the first of 13 produced by WNET here, I'd say we may be facing the dawn of a new era in American public TV — namely, a first-rate dramatic effort not made by the BBC.

The show studies the life of young John Adams, his courtship of Abigail Smith and their marriage in 1764, and the start of his rise to prominence in American history from humble origins as a struggling lawyer and farmer in Braintree, Mass.

George Grizzard seems a mite old to be playing young Adams — the actor was 47 when the show was taped — but he still turns in a fine performance, as does Katherine Walker, cast as his strong-minded wife.

In a history show of this kind, one might expect wooden, stilted writing. But such is not the case here; the dialogue is believable, even sprightly at times and the show is good drama, not bad pageantry.

The premise of CBS' "Popi" series isn't too novel. It's about a Puerto Rican widower with two young sons. It replaces "Joe and Sons," which concerned an Italian-American widower with two young sons.

Tonight's opener has a ho-hum yarn about a runaway Great Dane and the boys' adoption of same. Still, the show has a nice, natural feel to it and doesn't depend on mugging or shouting for its laughs.

The acting of Hector Elizondo, cast as Popi, is particularly good. And wonder of wonders, the show doesn't stick to the usual apartment setting of sitcoms. It even goes on location in New York for some scenes.

With better scripts, "Popi" could prove the surprise hit of the mid-season.

REIDSVILLE, N.C. (AP) — Ever try painting with powder? That's exactly how a smooth, pollutant-free, high-reflectance white surface is applied to lighting fixtures produced at the GTE Sylvania Indoor Lighting Operation here.

Powder coating provides several advantages over wet spray painting. Environmentally, it is a desirable process because it eliminates the danger of pollution through paint-solvent discharges; cost savings are possible, and it produces a harder, more durable finish with higher reflectivity.

This plant pioneered the powder-coating method in the fluorescent fixture industry and has employed the system exclusively since mid-1974.

Coating is done by 14 automatic electrostatic guns plus two manual touch-up guns all controlled from a solid-state central console.

Snowfall amounts across Ohio ranged from two to four inches in northeastern counties to one to two inches elsewhere.

"they can't even use the 100 per cent subsidy."
Gould said his office has been frustrated in attempts to get Ohio state government interested in saving Ohio's rail system.
"Very few people have a vested interest in rails in Ohio," Gould noted. He said the small businessman will be affected by the rail problems, not big business, and that appears to be a major part of the problem.
Rail problems in Ohio have been spoken about for almost a year, but have drawn little attention except from Rep. Arthur Wilkowski, D-46 Toledo.
Wilkowski pushed through legislation creating an Ohio Rail Transportation Authority to deal with the problem and drafted a constitutional amendment which would allow Ohio to participate in the federal subsidy program.
But the amendment was defeated at the polls last November, and members of the rail authority were not appointed until about the first of this year.
As a result, Gould said, Ohio lags badly.
Ohio's problems are tied to reorganization of seven bankrupt rail lines in the Northeast and Midwest. Under federal law, the lines will become a government-supported private railroad named the Consolidated Rail Corp., or ConRail.
The law which created ConRail specified it has to aim at making a profit, and its system plan calls for dropping rail sections which are not paying their way. That includes the 850 miles in Ohio.
But to alleviate the economic problem caused by abandoning the lines, Congress promised a subsidy program which would allow the state to pick up part of the loss, with the federal government picking up the rest.
It is that subsidy program which now is undergoing final touchups in the congressional conference committee. And it is from that subsidy program which, Gould said, Ohio may be excluded.

Icy Roads Cause Wrecks, 7 Injured

Pickaway County Sheriff's Authorities investigated 13 accidents between 3 p.m. Monday and 6:30 a.m. today as a result of the icy roadways. Numerous other reports were received of vehicles skidding off the road with no damage or injuries involved.
Six persons were injured in a single-car accident, 3:45 p.m. Monday, on State Route 104 at the Big Darby Creek Bridge.
Cliverda E. Colvin, 32, Ft. Worth, Tex., was southbound on 104 when her vehicle began sliding on the ice-covered bridge. The auto traveled left of center, struck the guard rail and continued south where it struck the bridge abutment.
Mrs. Colvin and her husband, Millard, 41, were both admitted to Berger Hospital for injuries sustained in the wreck. Passengers treated and released at the hospital were Ronald Colvin, 31, Columbus; Sandra Colvin, 9, James B. Colvin, 5, and Tara Colvin, 3, all of Ft. Worth, Tex.
Deputy James Fite and Sheriff Dwight Radcliff investigated the wreck.
Seventeen-year-old Kelley Kerns, Route 1, Williamsport, was cited for failure to maintain an assured clear distance ahead, when he struck the rear of an auto driven by Gerald L. Gerhart, 43, Route 1, Williamsport, in a two-car accident, 3:25 p.m. Monday.
Marjorie Reisinger, 57, Route 1, Williamsport, a passenger in the Gerhart auto, was transported to Berger Hospital for possible back and arm injuries.
A hit-skip accident, 11:38 p.m. Monday on Route 23, resulted in charges filed against Mark S. Fullen, of 345 E. Union St., today.
According to the report filed by Deputies James Fite and J. Philip Brown, Wray Vaughan Herdman, 38, Route 1, Ashville, was southbound in the passing lane of Route 23 just after making a left turn from County Road 508 when his auto was struck in the right rear fender.
The second auto continued south on 23, struck a guard rail, crossed the median strip where it continued south in the northbound lane. The vehicle traveled back into the southbound lane and continued into Circleville.
Deputy Brown found the Fullen auto with damage to the left side off the highway along Stoutsville Pike and Winstead Road.
Investigation revealed Fullen later reported he was involved in an accident. Deputy Brown went to the residence of the driver where he charged him with leaving the scene of an accident.
Herdman filed charges of ACDA against Fullen.

"they can't even use the 100 per cent subsidy."

Gould said his office has been frustrated in attempts to get Ohio state government interested in saving Ohio's rail system.

"Very few people have a vested interest in rails in Ohio," Gould noted. He said the small businessman will be affected by the rail problems, not big business, and that appears to be a major part of the problem.

Rail problems in Ohio have been spoken about for almost a year, but have drawn little attention except from Rep. Arthur Wilkowski, D-46 Toledo.

Wilkowski pushed through legislation creating an Ohio Rail Transportation Authority to deal with the problem and drafted a constitutional amendment which would allow Ohio to participate in the federal subsidy program.

But the amendment was defeated at the polls last November, and members of the rail authority were not appointed until about the first of this year.

As a result, Gould said, Ohio lags badly.

Ohio's problems are tied to reorganization of seven bankrupt rail lines in the Northeast and Midwest. Under federal law, the lines will become a government-supported private railroad named the Consolidated Rail Corp., or ConRail.

The law which created ConRail specified it has to aim at making a profit, and its system plan calls for dropping rail sections which are not paying their way. That includes the 850 miles in Ohio.

But to alleviate the economic problem caused by abandoning the lines, Congress promised a subsidy program which would allow the state to pick up part of the loss, with the federal government picking up the rest.

It is that subsidy program which now is undergoing final touchups in the congressional conference committee. And it is from that subsidy program which, Gould said, Ohio may be excluded.

Icy Roads Cause Wrecks, 7 Injured

Pickaway County Sheriff's Authorities investigated 13 accidents between 3 p.m. Monday and 6:30 a.m. today as a result of the icy roadways. Numerous other reports were received of vehicles skidding off the road with no damage or injuries involved.

Six persons were injured in a single-car accident, 3:45 p.m. Monday, on State Route 104 at the Big Darby Creek Bridge.

Cliverda E. Colvin, 32, Ft. Worth, Tex., was southbound on 104 when her vehicle began sliding on the ice-covered bridge. The auto traveled left of center, struck the guard rail and continued south where it struck the bridge abutment.

Mrs. Colvin and her husband, Millard, 41, were both admitted to Berger Hospital for injuries sustained in the wreck. Passengers treated and released at the hospital were Ronald Colvin, 31, Columbus; Sandra Colvin, 9, James B. Colvin, 5, and Tara Colvin, 3, all of Ft. Worth, Tex.

Deputy James Fite and Sheriff Dwight Radcliff investigated the wreck.

Seventeen-year-old Kelley Kerns, Route 1, Williamsport, was cited for failure to maintain an assured clear distance ahead, when he struck the rear of an auto driven by Gerald L. Gerhart, 43, Route 1, Williamsport, in a two-car accident, 3:25 p.m. Monday.

Marjorie Reisinger, 57, Route 1, Williamsport, a passenger in the Gerhart auto, was transported to Berger Hospital for possible back and arm injuries.

A hit-skip accident, 11:38 p.m. Monday on Route 23, resulted in charges filed against Mark S. Fullen, of 345 E. Union St., today.

According to the report filed by Deputies James Fite and J. Philip Brown, Wray Vaughan Herdman, 38, Route 1, Ashville, was southbound in the passing lane of Route 23 just after making a left turn from County Road 508 when his auto was struck in the right rear fender.

The second auto continued south on 23, struck a guard rail, crossed the median strip where it continued south in the northbound lane. The vehicle traveled back into the southbound lane and continued into Circleville.

Deputy Brown found the Fullen auto with damage to the left side off the highway along Stoutsville Pike and Winstead Road.

Investigation revealed Fullen later reported he was involved in an accident. Deputy Brown went to the residence of the driver where he charged him with leaving the scene of an accident.

Herdman filed charges of ACDA against Fullen.
